Lead where you are

AUGUST 7-8, 2025

SUMMIT GUIDE
STUDIO AUDIENCE

Dear Leader,

Welcome to the 2025 Global Leadership Summit. We're so glad you're here.

Leaders don't settle for the status quo. They push beyond what's expected.

I bet that's why you're here. To seek your next steps. To dream big. To take things beyond yourself.

These next two days, you will be equipped and inspired to lead where you are. To create transformation in the world around you.

Because you — no matter your context — have influence.

Michael MULDROW

Police Commissioner for the City of York, PA

When God gave Michael Muldrow, Police Commissioner for York, PA, a vision to prevent crime by fostering community, he started by walking the streets. And when he attended the Global Leadership Summit, he gained a grander vision. He began to engage with the most vulnerable in York by serving in prisons and schools.

Since then, crime in York has dropped significantly. Michael now sees himself as more than a police commissioner — he's a mentor to the next generation.

*This is your chance to pause and tune in.
Catch the quiet thoughts before they slip away.*

Who are the leaders I admire most — and what makes them stand out?

Have I felt any nudges or promptings lately that I shouldn't ignore?

What ideas or conversations sparked curiosity — enough to dig deeper?

what hit me

Sometimes we learn the most by noticing what made us pause.

What moment or message hit home for me — and why did it land so strongly?

What stirred up frustration, sadness or anger — and what might be underneath that reaction?

What did I hear that I'm still thinking about — and what's keeping it on my mind?

how i connect

Leadership shows up in how we relate to others.

If my coworkers or supervisor gave me honest feedback, what would they say I need to grow in?

What might my family want me to work on — even if they haven't said it out loud?

What's one thing I'd like to shift in how I relate to others — at work or at home?

the one action i will take —>

Bobby GRUENEWALD

CEO, YouVersion; Edmond, OK

When Bobby Gruenewald created a digital Bible experience in 2007, it didn't have the impact he hoped. But in 2008, he embraced risk once more — launching one of the first apps in the Apple App Store: YouVersion.

He imagined a resource that would help people have greater intimacy with God through Scripture. After saying yes to God's calling, his vision kept expanding. Now, his grander vision is to go beyond one billion total installs worldwide.

What grand vision might God be inviting you into?
